About the Drug Policy Project

The King County Bar Association is helping to coordinate a high-level partnership of lawyers, doctors, scholars and other professionals in examining current drug policies and considering cheaper, more effective and more humane measures to address the chronic societal problems of drug abuse. The principal objectives of this effort are:

- Reductions in crime and public disorder;
- Improvements in public health;
- Better protection of children; and
- Wiser use of scarce public resources.

Through its Drug Policy Project, the King County Bar Association has been promoting a public health approach to drug abuse, stressing a shift of resources to research, education, prevention and treatment as an alternative to the continued use of criminal sanctions.

Co-Sponsors Include:

- King County Medical Society
- Washington State Pharmacy Association
- National Alliance on Mental Illness
- League of Women Voters of Washington
- Loren Miller Bar Association
- Washington Physicians for Social Responsibility
- American Civil Liberties Union of Washington
