A Note of Thanks to You –
Our Friends, Colleagues, and Donors

Everyone reading this year’s Annual Report understands the many challenges we have faced over the past year. Our country more divided politically, socially, and morally than it ever has been before. And still we persist. We persist with our mission to provide free legal services to those who are in need and who would otherwise go unrepresented. We persist with our mission to provide scholarships to minority populations and others who are underserved in our diverse communities. We persist in our belief that by these acts we can improve not only the lives touched directly by these deeds but also the lives of everyone in our community. Because a rising tide raises all boats.

It has been my pleasure and honor over the past year to serve as the President of the King County Bar Foundation. I am pleased to present for you this year’s Annual Report. This year we continued in our effort to reach out to donors, thanking them for their past contributions and seeking their advice on ways to improve our success relative to our mission. One of our goals is to find a way to increase the number of donors who are not directly associated with the legal field. That includes our many corporate friends in the greater Puget Sound region. Already, organizations such as Amazon, Microsoft, the Seattle Mariners, and Starbucks play a significant role in our success. We hope to add other companies to that list and would welcome any input from you on how to accomplish that goal.

Our two major fundraising efforts, the Campaign for Equal Justice and the Breakfast With Champions, continue to provide great rewards for our organization and allow us to fulfill our mission. This year the CEJ raised over $550,000 and the BWC raised more than $320,000. They are both wonderful events and we encourage you to think about how you can participate but we believe there is more to be done.

There are still thousands in our community who would benefit from the services we support. The Housing Justice Project, our Neighborhood Legal Clinics, Family Law Mentor Programs, Kinship Care, and Self-Help programs have so many more people they can reach and help. In addition, providing more money for minority scholarships to help our legal community more closely reflect our diverse population will inevitably improve our community as a whole. Through your continued support, all this can be achieved.

So on behalf of the entire King County Bar Foundation Board, I want to thank you for your past and continuing support of our mission. Thanks to you, we persist.

KCBF President 2017–2018
Minority Law Student Scholarships

The King County Bar Foundation honored its most recent minority law student scholarship recipients from the Seattle University and University of Washington Schools of Law at its annual Bar Scholars Reception.

Every year, the KCBF Minority Law Student Scholarship program serves as the driving force behind the Foundation’s efforts to provide financial assistance to deserving minority students, increase workplace diversity in the legal profession, and help retain minority lawyers practicing in our local communities.

The King County Bar Foundation is one of the largest providers of minority law student scholarships in Washington. In 2017–2018, 65 Bar Scholars were awarded $140,000 in scholarship funds – $70,000 to each school.

Over 900 scholarships, totaling almost $2.5 million, have been awarded through this program since it began in 1970, and over half of the scholarship recipients still practice in the state.

LSAT Preparation Grant Program

The goal of this new diversity initiative is to improve the quality of services provided by Washington attorneys by increasing access to a legal education. The program offers a limited number of participants financial support for LSAT registration fees and preparatory course work. Fifteen grants were awarded for the inaugural round of the program this year.

Bar Scholars Student Spotlight

Angélica González, a current 3L at Seattle University School of Law, has overcome many obstacles to get to her current position. Angélica struggled with homelessness throughout her youth and young adult life. She was in a shelter with her three kids when she applied to law school. Now a single mother of five, two of which are her nephews, Angélica balances law school with work. Regarding the cost of law school, she says that scholarships like the one from the King County Bar provide her with the support to meet gaps in her funding. “Because when you’re looking at the number you’re short to pay your tuition, anything you get counts.”

Held November 7, 2017, this year’s event was hosted at the office of Hillis Clark Martin & Peterson.

FAMILY LAW PRO BONO PROGRAMS
These programs include the Family Law Mentor Program, the Kinship Care Solutions Project, and the Self-Help Plus Program. The Family Law Mentor Program and Kinship Care Solutions Project assist clients with direct representation for contested divorces where domestic violence is present and/or children are at risk, Domestic Violence Protection Orders, third-party non-parental custody cases, and Special Juvenile Immigrant Status for unaccompanied minors. The Self-Help Plus Program provides assistance in non-contested divorces, parenting plans, and third-party custody actions involving Special Juvenile Immigrant Status for unaccompanied minors.

HOUSING JUSTICE PROJECT
The Housing Justice Project (HJP) provides free legal help to eligible low-income tenants facing eviction. This clinic operates daily at the King County Courthouse in downtown Seattle and at the Maleng Regional Justice Center in Kent. HJP also offers evening clinics in Seattle at the King County Courthouse.

NEIGHBORHOOD LEGAL CLINICS
Neighborhood Legal Clinics (NLC) offer individuals a free half-hour consultation with a volunteer attorney. Attorneys determine whether the client has a legal problem, suggest possible options, and provide appropriate referrals. NLC has 41 clinics located throughout King County, including general legal clinics which assist clients with any kind of civil legal issues, as well as specialty clinics.

VOLUNTEER LEGAL SERVICES
Volunteer Legal Services (VLS) offer eligible clients direct on-going representation. VLS takes cases in the following areas: Chapter 7 bankruptcy, vacating criminal records, Social Security overpayments, wills and estate planning, and debt defense. VLS offers a free debt education workshop, Make Change!, which is open to the public.

Our Client’s Story: Joanna
Joanna came to the Kinship Care Solutions Project to obtain custody of a young child that she’d been raising since birth. The mother of the child had a history of admitted substance abuse issues including using drugs in the child’s presence. The father had abandoned the child.

Child Protective Services had become involved and encouraged Joanna, a friend of the mother, to seek custody of the child. A volunteer attorney with the Kinship Project helped Joanna obtain a non-parental custody order – this enables her to care for and protect the child in addition to allowing supervised visits with the child’s mother.
Record Amount of Donations Raised at the 2018 Annual Breakfast With Champions

Over 800 members of the legal community convened on March 20 for the 18th Annual Breakfast With Champions. The event helped the King County Bar Foundation raise money for access to justice and diversity programs.

KCBF President Eric Gillett started off the event as the Master of Ceremonies. Anne Daly, director of Pro Bono Services at the bar, explained how donations directly impact programs for indigent members of our community. KCBF Vice President Todd Bowers asked guests to contribute generously to the Foundation’s programs.

A special video was presented to discuss the importance of KCBF’s scholarship program. It focused on one of the recipients, Ángelica González, a student at Seattle University School of Law. Additionally in the video, administration from both local law schools gave testimonials about the importance of promoting and retaining diversity in the legal profession.

The keynote speech was delivered by Dahlia Lithwick, senior editor at Slate. Speaking about differences among U.S. Supreme Court justices, she captivated the crowd with her humorous and relevant storytelling.

The 2018 Breakfast raised a record amount of individual gift contributions – over $180,000, for a total of over $320,000 with sponsorships included.

KCBF is grateful for all sponsors, table captains, guests, and trustees for making this year’s breakfast an unparalleled success.

Special acknowledgements to the Breakfast planning committee who volunteered hours of their time and energy to put on this event: Todd Bowers (chair), Jeffrey Frank, Gregory Kipper, Timothy Moran, Kelly Noonan, and Scott Smith.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS! Next year’s Breakfast With Champions will be held Wednesday, April 3, 2019, at the Sheraton Seattle, featuring former Attorney General Loretta Lynch as keynote speaker.

Supporting Our Statewide Civil Legal Aid System

The King County Bar Foundation and the Legal Foundation of Washington joined efforts to raise over $550,000 for the 2017–2018 Campaign for Equal Justice in support of KCBF’s pro bono services and other civil legal aid programs across the state.

There were 82 participating law firms who contributed to the campaign’s notable success. Giving at a level of $300 per attorney, or $25,000 or above for the firm, 40 of those firms were Champions of Justice. A number of individual donor contributions were received as well.

The King County Bar is proud to support the work of our statewide partners. The funds raised by the Campaign for Equal Justice served thousands of low-income families last year. Without continued donations from local law firms, too many families will face the justice system alone.

Access to civil legal aid plays a crucial role in ensuring the broader health of our community by:

- Addressing head-on the negative impacts from wide-scale economic downturns
- Protecting women and children from abuse
- Helping returning military veterans to receive their earned benefits
- Effectively preempting a downward spiral of costly social problems

Together we can ensure that the most vulnerable among us have access to civil legal aid.

Thanks to those who gave so generously, we are able to make a lasting impact in the lives of many. We extend our deepest gratitude to all of the law firms who contributed to the 2017–2018 campaign.
LEAVING A LEGACY

The Legacy Group

Members of the Legacy Group have remembered the King County Bar Foundation in their estate plans.
Clark had accumulated a substantial amount of student loan debt. Due to numerous health complications, he was unable to complete his education or go into his chosen field. Although he was employed, his income was so low that he would never be able to pay off the debt. After seeking legal help to discharge the student loan debt, KCBA Volunteer Legal Services (VLS) connected Clark to a team of pro bono attorneys who put in hundreds of hours of work to prepare for seeking discovery, conducting depositions, and negotiating with opposing counsel. Approximately one week before trial was set to start, Clark’s pro bono attorneys were able to negotiate a settlement with terms that were favorable for Clark.

Celebrating Judge Ronald Cox’s Retirement

Our deepest thanks to the law clerks and colleagues of Judge Ronald E. Cox who donated generously in honor of his retirement. Judge Cox retired on May 31, 2018, having served on the Washington State Court of Appeals since 1995.

Judge Cox was the president of KCBF from 1989–1991. He was also awarded the Outstanding Judge Award by the Association in 2012.

Our Clients’ Story: Frances & Barry

Frances and Barry, a couple living together without children, fell behind on their rent payments due to a layoff. Their rented home also had livability issues, including an infestation, numerous structural defects, and mold. They were served with a notice to pay rent or vacate, followed by a summons and complaint for unlawful detainer. They came to the Housing Justice Project in Kent for assistance on the day of their eviction hearing.

The couple met with a volunteer attorney and explained that they wanted to stay in their home until the end of their lease and that they would be receiving a settlement with which they could pay off the outstanding balance that they owed. The volunteer attorney met with the landlord’s attorney and was able to negotiate an agreement whereby the tenants would pay off the amount in two installments, and be able to finish out the lease. Furthermore, they were granted from the court an order preventing tenant screening companies from reporting the eviction action to prospective landlords in the future.
Your contribution to KCBF provides scholarships to minority law students at our local law schools, and helps King County residents navigate the legal system as a means to meet their basic human needs.
